Rocker parties & flirts with hottie while pregnant mom SITS AT HOME

WHILE pregnant Nicole Richie sat home with her 18-month-old daughter, and bought her a Heineken. And that was all she needed – she hung onto him for the rest of the night."

Harlow, boyfriend Joel Madden spent the night "drinking and flirting" – and then exchanged phone numbers! – with a sexy, tattooed brunette at the Hollywood club Guys & Dolls, an eyewitness told The ENQUIRER.

The Good Charlotte rocker turned his guest disc-jockey gig at the club on June 29 into a raucous boys' night out – acting "out of control and definitely behaving like a single guy," the source told The ENQUIRER. "Instead of staying at home with pregnant Nicole, he was acting like a total tool – smoking, drinking Red Bull and vodka, and buying drinks for a woman at the club who was hanging all over him.

"HE WAS DEFINITELY ACTING LIKE A complete Hollywood player." Joel started the flirting, says the insider – and the tattooed beauty flirted right back.

"She twirled her hair and kept leaning in closely and whispering in his ear.

"Joel smiled at her, touched her

Nicole with baby Harlow in L.A. on June 2

The two even exchanged phone numbers.

"It was such a tacky thing to do in front of people who knew he had a pregnant girlfriend at home waiting for him," continued the eyewitness.

Stunned pals were so taken aback by Joel's uncharacteristic behavior, they said they were going to text-message Nicole to let her know what was going on.

"I'm sure he had some major explaining to do when he got home," added the source.

Farrah Fawcett

Mourners shocked to see him wearing wedding ring at funeral

Ryan O'Neal was married to Farrah – IN HIS HEART

RYAN O'NEAL stunned mourners when he showed up at Farrah Fawcett's funeral wearing a conspicuous gold wedding band.

It was the ring the "Love Story" star hoped to wear at their wedding – a dream that never came true due to the untimely passing of the beloved "Charlie's Angel" star, The ENQUIRER has learned exclusively.

"Ryan's greatest regret is that he never got to marry Farrah," said an insider.

"He'd asked for her hand in marriage many times during their on-and-off 30-year relationship, but she didn't say 'yes' until the final days of her battle with cancer."

According to the insider, Ryan wore the ring as a symbol of his love for Farrah, 62, when he gathered with 500 other mourners for her funeral at the Cathedral of Our Lady of the Angels in Los Angeles on June 30.

Ryan honored Farrah by wearing the ring at her service on June 30

"People were shocked when they saw Ryan wearing a wedding ring. Some thought that maybe he did marry Farrah and wasn't telling anyone," divulged the insider.

"But once he explained that he was honoring the love of his life – the woman he never managed to wed – people understood. He says he'll wear the ring often in her memory."

The 68-year-old actor – who has sons Patrick, 41, Griffin, 44, and daughter Tatum, 45, from two previous marriages, plus son Redmond, 24, with Farrah – faced other family dramas at the funeral.

"Ryan was happy to spring

Redmond from jail for a few hours and thrilled to reunite with Tatum at the ceremony," continued the insider.

BUT HE ENDED UP TURNING away Griffin at the church door. They haven't spoken since Griffin said that Ryan fired a gun at him after a birthday party in 2007.

"Ryan wanted the funeral to be about love for Farrah," said the insider. "That's why he tried to keep what he felt might be 'bad vibes' out, and chose to wear that special ring."

BILLY MAYS KNEW HE WAS GOING TO DIE!

Infomercial king thanked his wife, then fell asleep and NEVER WOKE UP!

INFOMERCIAL king Billy Mays seemed to have had a premonition of his death just before he passed away in his sleep, friends say.

"Billy was in bed with his wife Deborah, and suddenly he told her, 'Thank you!' She said, 'For what?' and Billy answered, 'For being you and for being there,'" a source close to the family told The ENQUIRER.

"Deborah said this was very uncharacteristic of Billy, very out of the ordinary. She's convinced he knew he wasn't going to wake up."

Billy, 50, wasn't feeling well when he dozed off a little after 10 p.m. on June 27. "He had talked to a friend and said he was a little groggy," said the source.

Billy had just flown back to his Tampa, Fla., home from Philadelphia, where he'd shot a commercial.

Todd said that Billy seemed to be in good spirits on the last day of his life.

LAST PHOTO

The bearded salesman was on a flight returning to his condo in Tampa (below) when this pic was snapped by a college student

Anthony Sullivan on the Discovery Channel's reality show "Pitchmen."

Billy's last flight nearly ended tragically. The plane blew out a front tire on landing in Tampa. Billy, along with some of the other passengers, got clunked on the head when ceiling tiles and luggage from the overhead units toppled down on them, but there were no serious injuries.

Billy picked up his luggage and went home. He was in an anxious mood. On June 29, he was scheduled to have his third hip replacement surgery.

"Billy was in a lot of pain and was taking painkillers. He was terrified about the operation," said the source. But the operation would never take place.

Deborah found him unconscious, not breathing and cold to the touch when she awakened on June 28. He was rushed to a hospital where he was pronounced dead.

At first, suspicion fell on the head bump he received when the plane blew its tire, but an autopsy at the Hillsborough County Medical Examiner's facility revealed no external or internal head trauma.

Instead, it was discovered that Billy had hypertensive and arteriosclerotic heart disease. The diseases are capable of causing sudden death, according to Dr. Vernard Adams, Hillsborough County's medical examiner.

"We see this all the time," said Dr. Adams.

PAULA DEMANDS BIG RAISE TO STAY

'Idol' judge wants half of what Simon makes to sign new contract

NO ONE-MAN SHOW: Paula feels she's just as important to the show as Simon

"AMERICAN IDOL" judge Paula Abdul wants a $20 million annual paycheck – or about half of Simon Cowell's reported $43 million salary – to return to TV's top-rated show next year or she'll quit!

And that's no idle threat, say those close to the show.

"Paula's got plenty of opportunities to do other things if 'Idol' doesn't give her what she feels she deserves," said a source close to Paula.

"She thinks she should get half of what Simon has been making. Paula feels she's that important to the show. After all, what would Simon do without her? She's the butt of many of his jokes. 'Idol' wouldn't be the same without her!"

As The ENQUIRER reported earlier this year, 47-year-old Paula has been talking to CBS Paramount Network Television about developing her own show.

And as we reported in our July 6 issue, two Las Vegas hotels – The Venetian and Steve Wynn's Encore – are in a bidding war for a music and dance extravaganza that Paula would create, choreograph and appear in occasionally.

The multitasking beauty also has her jewelry line and music career, plus occasional acting gigs, including a guest spot in an episode of the Lifetime series "Drop Dead Diva."

The episode, airing in September, will feature the "Idol" star as a real judge who hears a case about a store that won't carry plus-sized clothes.

Paula's last "Idol" contract expired at the end of this past season and reportedly paid her $5 million to $8 million a year.

According to "Advertising Age," the "Idol" franchise has been valued at roughly $2.5 billion and is said to bring in more than $500 million a year in advertising revenue.

As the insider pointed out: "Paula is one of the major reasons 'Idol' rakes in a fortune. Surely they can pony up a bit more for her!"

CALL it Levi's revenge!

Sarah Palin's surprise announcement that she's resigning as Alaska's governor stunned the political world. But The ENQUIRER learned her decision was sparked by all-out war with the family of Levi Johnston, the estranged father of her grandson Tripp.

As The ENQUIRER previously reported, 19-year-old Levi is shopping an explosive tell-all book in which the former vice presidential candidate will be the main target.

"She's bracing for what he may write about her. Levi heard and saw a lot. He knows what really goes on with the Palins," declared a friend of Levi's.

Levi appeared on "The Tyra Banks Show"

"SARAH WASN'T ABLE TO keep the ugly feud between the Palins and Johnstons from boiling over. She quit because she knows Levi's book is going to cause a firestorm."

The families have been at odds since early this year when Sarah's daughter Bristol broke off her relationship with Levi – leaving their out-of-wedlock baby Tripp caught in the middle. A few months earlier, the Palins were furious when Levi's mother Sherry was arrested and charged with six felony drug charges.

Levi and Sarah have spent the last few months publicly trading insults.

"Sarah quitting as governor comes as something of sweet revenge for him," said the source.

While Palin has entertained talk of a possible 2012 White House run, the former "hockey mom" is entangled in mounting legal bills and a messy ethics investigation in her home state.

And Levi's book could put the final nail in the coffin of her political career.

"Levi was supposed to marry Bristol – he knows a lot about her family and can shed a lot of light on what's already out there," said the friend.

After Palin was tapped by Sen. John McCain to be the vice presidential nominee on the Republican ticket last summer, The ENQUIRER disclosed that the "family values" governor had engaged in an extramarital affair with her husband's former business partner back in 1996.

We also revealed that Bristol had scandalized her small town as a dope-smoking underage drinker and party girl and was once caught on videotape smoking marijuana at a party when she was 15, according to sources.

After the presidential campaign, we revealed that Palin was humiliated by Sen. McCain's wife Cindy who, sources say, viewed her as "a hick."

Levi, who hopes to be an electrician, has already shocked the Palins, trashing them on TV.

On CBS' "The Early Show," he accused the Alaskan governor of lying about him staying in her home before he split up with Bristol.

And on "The Tyra Banks Show," Levi said he believed Bristol's mom knew he was having sex with the teen prior to her becoming pregnant at 17.

The Palins fired back that he was "engaging in flat-out lies."

REAL REASON SARAH PALIN QUIT POLITICS

Outcast baby daddy Levi Johnston knows ALL THE FAMILY SECRETS

SISTERS Cassie and Candace Eloph had spent years trying to find their long-lost older brother. Their mom had placed him for adoption right after he was born, and his sisters never had a chance to meet him.

They scoured the Internet for contact information, but it had been 32 years since he'd been adopted, and they had no real clues as to his whereabouts.

"We looked for him because we knew how bad our mother felt about giving him up," Candace told The ENQUIRER. "But as the years passed, we thought we'd never find him."

They'd all but given up hope, when they found him in an unlikely place: He was living right across the street!

"It's just incredible," says Candace.

JAMIE WHEAT WAS GIVEN UP FOR adoption by his 16-year-old mother, JoEllen Cottrell, after he was born at the Barksdale Air Force base in Louisiana in 1977.

"It was more her mother's decision, and she went along with whatever her mom said," says Cassie. "Jamie is of mixed race. I think that's why her mom was so adamant that she had to give him up."

JoEllen moved away from Louisiana, got married and had three daughters: Candace, 29, Cassie, 27, and Nikki, 30. Jamie grew up in Shreveport, La., after being adopted by Ted and Ann Wheat.

"I have two great parents, but I was always curious about who my real mom was," Jamie told The ENQUIRER.

"I tried to find her when I was 14. The adoption agency sent me all these forms to fill out, but they said they'd only put me in touch with her if she agreed to meet me. I never filled in the forms because I was afraid she might not want to hear from me."

HOWDY, NEIGHBOR: Candace waves to her newfound brother Jamie from her home in Shreveport, La.

Two years ago, Candace and Cassie moved into a duplex in Shreveport — directly across the street from Ted and Ann Wheat's home.

It wasn't long before Cassie, Candace and Jamie became friends. Then, one night in May, Jamie mentioned his birth date in passing: Jan. 27, 1977.

"Hmm, we had a brother who was born on that date, but he was adopted," Cassie recalls telling him.

Jamie then told the women he had been adopted and where he'd been born — and that his birth mother had red hair, freckles and the maiden name Henderson.

"Candy and I looked at each other and gasped," says Cassie. "We said, 'Jamie, this is unbelievable. You're our brother! Our mom has red hair and freckles, and her maiden name was Henderson!'"

"WE STARTED HUGGING AND crying. We'd finally found him. We immediately called our mom and told her. She burst into tears and kept screaming, 'Oh my God!'"

That evening, JoEllen got in her car and drove 12 hours through the night from her home in Kansas City, Mo., to Shreveport. When she got there, she and Jamie fell into each other's arms.

"We were both bawling," says Jamie.

"I made it a point to tell her that I was OK with her giving me up for adoption."

"I was just glad I'd finally found her."

In a terrifying medical scare, Britney Spears suddenly collapsed while rehearsing – and a doctor was rushed to her side.

The 27-year-old singer suffers from low blood sugar – a condition her father Jamie has been trying to keep secret, divulged a source.

The popular entertainer was recently rehearsing new songs when she passed out as the dancers, as part of the routine, lifted her body while she lay sideways.

“She collapsed when the dancers went to put her back on her feet,” revealed the source.

“She fell to the floor and landed on one of the dancer’s legs – and the dancer’s tennis shoe smacked Britney in the chest and on her face.

“It hit her chest with such a force that it caused a four-inch bruise.”

Everyone rushed over to Britney, and they realized she had fainted. Her father Jamie ended the rehearsal and immediately called a doctor.

Blood tests indicated low blood sugar as the problem.

THERE HAVE BEEN

other times in the last few months that Britney has fainted and felt lightheaded, according to the source.

The first time she collapsed was during the intense rehearsals prior to the March 3 New Orleans start of her tour. And while on the road, the singer has had to take a break while performing because she felt she was going to faint, said the source.

Although she’s physically strong, those close to Britney say she often doesn’t eat right or get enough rest. Plus, she’s under a lot of stress from the tour.

What made Britney’s recent collapse even more chilling to those around her is that it happened around the same time Michael Jackson was working at a grueling pace to ready himself for his London concerts – and his weakened heart gave out.

Britney, too, has been working in overdrive – rehearsing for the second leg of her tour and tending to sons Sean, 3, and Jayden, 2. She is with them every other day.

“Her schedule has wreaked havoc on her body,” said the source.

BRITNEY COLLAPSES

“She’s been trying to cut down on caffeine and sweetened beverages.

“Jamie has tried to get her off soda and Starbucks, and has even told her staff not to allow sugary drinks in the house. And he has forbidden everyone from buying her Red Bull.

“SHE SOMETIMES CONSUMES

the coffee drinks and the sugary sodas instead of eating, but now Britney needs to eat every two hours to keep her blood sugar up.”

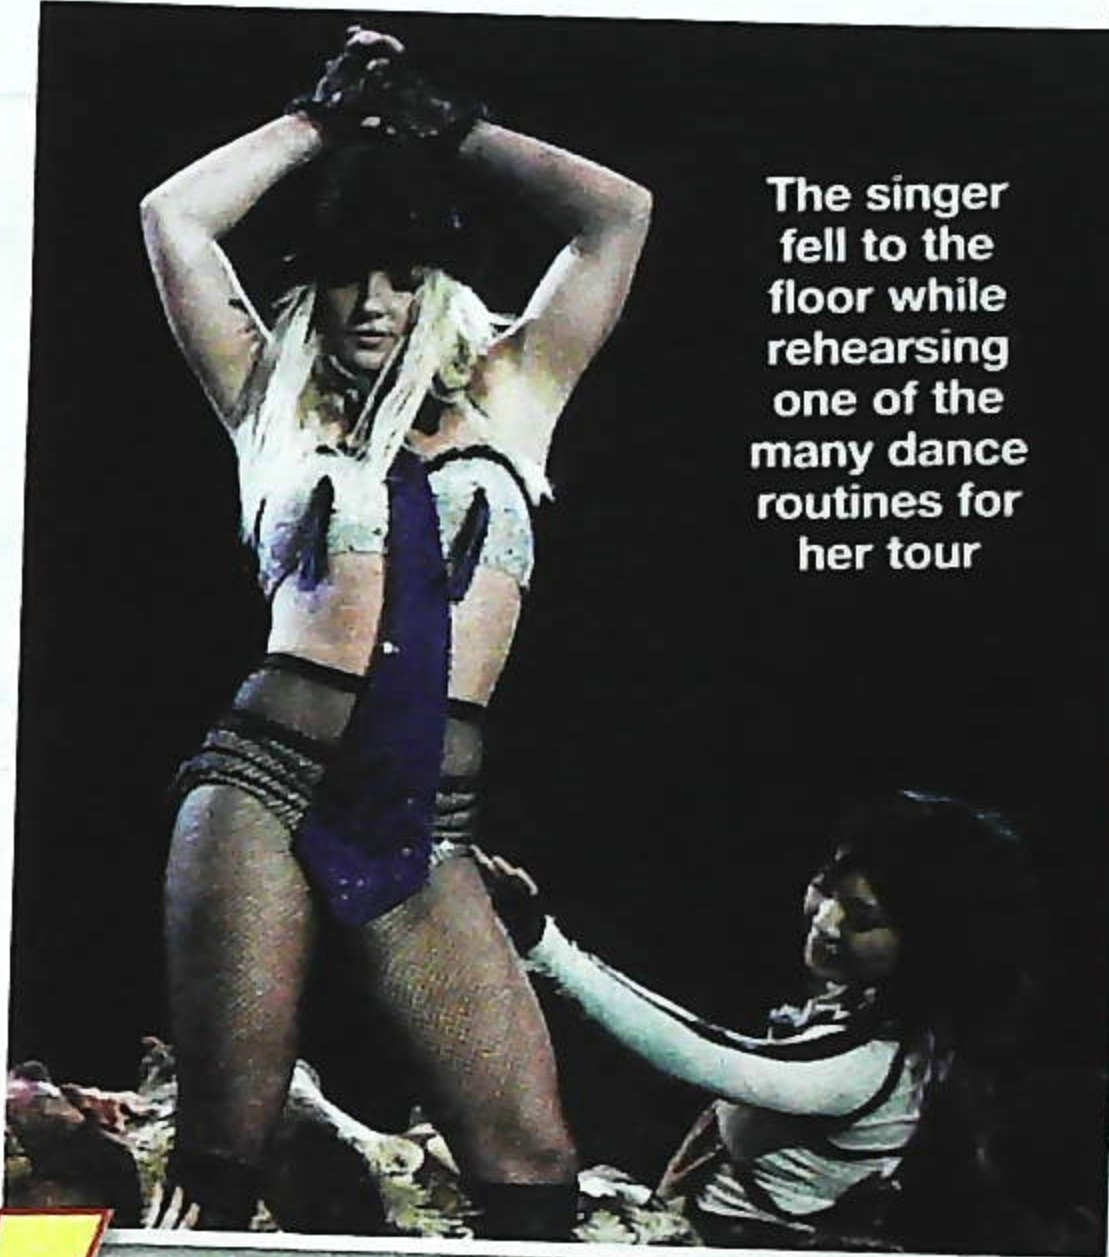

Jamie is trying to do all he can to get Britney to lead a healthier lifestyle. Kevin Federline, her ex-husband who is along on the tour to help care for their sons, shares her father’s concern about Britney’s well-being.

“Kevin is worried that the pressure of the tour and the rehearsals are just too much for Britney, both mentally and physically,” divulged the source.

JUST when John Edwards thought his love life couldn't get any messier, he finds himself embroiled in a sex tape scandal!

The disgraced presidential candidate and his ex-mistress Rielle Hunter are accusing his once loyal aide Andrew Young of secretly taping them, say insiders.

Both the ex-senator and the blonde divorcee think Young may have videotaped them having sex in North Carolina in 2007 when Rielle was pregnant, a close source told The ENQUIRER.

Young will describe the sex video in his forthcoming tell-all book, according to a published report.

The political aide's book proposal reportedly says he found the shocking video while unpacking after he and his family relocated to a new home in California.

To hide the affair, Rielle had lived for a while in Young's guest room — where a cheating Edwards secretly hooked up with her, according to the close source.

"John and Rielle think Andrew concocted the story that he 'found' the tape. They think he may have been the one responsible for recording it," divulged the close source.

THE ENQUIRER REVEALED exclusively in our Dec. 31, 2007, issue that Rielle was pregnant with Edwards' baby — and John was desperate to protect his White House run.

To help him, Young, 43, insisted he was the father of Rielle's baby.

But before moving to her own place, Rielle had stayed with the Young family — where Edwards could secretly visit her.

"John did come by for what you might say were 'booty calls,'" disclosed the close source.

"Could their lovemaking have been videotaped? — and for what purpose? — that's what they're trying to figure out. Rielle insists she never taped them...but she was hired to shoot videos of John on the campaign trail and certainly had access to video equipment."

"Regardless of who made the tape, the two are afraid to death that it will hit the Internet."

According to new reports, Young's book will confirm many of The ENQUIRER's scoops regarding the Edwards scandal. Young will write that Edwards promised he "would be taken care of for life" in return for falsely claiming he was the father of Rielle's baby.

Young reportedly says Edwards persuaded him to take responsibility for the baby by saying:

"You know how much I love you. You know I'd walk off a cliff for you, and I know you'd walk off a cliff for me. I will never forget this. And I will always be there for you."

Young will also divulge in the book that Rielle, 45, confided to him that she and Edwards, 56, talked about getting married should his cancer-stricken wife Elizabeth die, "even discussing what music they'd play at their wedding."

Last week, The ENQUIRER revealed that Young's book could provide the evidence needed for a federal grand jury investigating Edwards to indict the North Carolina politician on violations of election laws that could land him behind bars. Young appeared in front of the grand jury on July 1.

WHILE EDWARDS HAS vehemently denied all charges, he hasn't even admitted to fathering Rielle's baby — investigators have been probing whether the ex-senator funneled hush money to Rielle and Young. Both were receiving upward of $20,000 a month prior to The ENQUIRER exposing the coverup in July 2008 when our reporters caught Edwards secretly visiting Rielle and the baby at a Beverly Hills hotel.

We've also revealed that Young was able to move back to North Carolina and into a new million-dollar home with the help of additional "hush money" he received.

Said the close source: "On top of all that, now John and Rielle have to worry about seeing their most intimate moments on the Internet."

INSIDE COPS' INVESTIGATION:

Michael Jackson 10,000 PILLS IN 6 MONTHS

What he was taking & where he was getting them!

MICHAEL JACKSON ingested an astounding 10,000 pills in the last six months of his life!

That's more than 50 pills a day – and it's the incredible estimate of law enforcement authorities probing the 50-year-old King of Pop's sudden death on June 25, The ENQUIRER has learned exclusively.

The music icon was taking more than 30 different types of drugs "for a variety of real and imagined" problems, according to police sources close to the official investigation – who have disclosed a list of those drugs to The ENQUIRER.

"Incredible as it may sound, investigators estimate Jackson ingested a staggering 10,000 pills in the final six months of his life. He was literally living on drugs," a close source divulged.

THE PROBE INTO JACKSON'S DRUG USE heated up when confidential informants alerted LAPD detectives to evidence in the rented Holmby Hills mansion where the singer died, said the source.

"Michael's family had already removed personal belongings, but the drugs were hidden in the chateau," said the source.

"Armed with a search warrant, the detectives were given a specific 'hiding place' where they recovered a cache of drugs and other materials that could be used in a possible criminal case."

The drug stash included the powerful anesthetic Diprivan. Also known by its generic name propofol, it is normally administered intravenously in hospital settings

Here, according to confidential sources, are the drugs recovered at Michael Jackson's rented home, or drugs he's believed to have been taking:

- ✓ Diprivan – anesthetic
- ✓ Palladone – painkiller
- ✓ OxyContin – painkiller
- ✓ Demerol – painkiller
- ✓ Celebrex – anti-inflammatory
- ✓ Percocet – painkiller
- ✓ Lexapro – antidepressant
- ✓ Paxil – antidepressant
- ✓ Luvox – antidepressant
- ✓ Fluvoxamine – antidepressant
- ✓ Prozac – antidepressant
- ✓ Desipramine – antidepressant
- ✓ Cymbalta – anti-anxiety
- ✓ Mirtazepine – antidepressant
- ✓ Nardil – antidepressant
- ✓ Parnate – antidepressant
- ✓ HydroDIURIL – diuretic
- ✓ Diovan – high blood pressure
- ✓ Eszopiclone – sedative
- ✓ Ramelteon – sedative
- ✓ Zaleplon – sedative
- ✓ Zolpidem – sedative
- ✓ Hydroquinone – skin bleaching
- ✓ Aminorex – stimulant
- ✓ Desoxyn – stimulant
- ✓ Dexedrine – stimulant
- ✓ Didrex – stimulant
- ✓ Ditropan – bladder control

INSIDE MICHAEL'S BEDROOM

Jacko was found unconscious in the bedroom of his home in the Holmby Hills area of Los Angeles as a general anesthetic. Experts say that without proper monitoring, the drug can lead to cardiac arrest, the cause of Jackson's death.

While a "large quantity" of Diprivan was recovered, "there were also countless vitamins, over-the-counter sleep aids, weight-loss pills, energy pills and supplements of all kinds," the close source told The ENQUIRER.

"One member of his house staff told an investigator, 'There were pills everywhere! We found pills in every room, even under his bed!'"

Investigators have learned many of the drugs in Jackson's hoard came from foreign sources. The "Los Angeles Times" has reported many of the prescriptions were listed under Jackson pseudonyms, while some drugs had no prescription labels on them.

Syringes and intravenous solutions were also found at Jackson's rented mansion, according to the source. "Investigators have learned that bags of IV fluids were used twice daily," said the source.

"Confidential informants have disclosed Jackson began taking meds intravenously for faster absorption and less impact to his liver and kidneys, which had already been damaged by excessive drug use."

Investigators also believe more than a dozen doctors and other people may have supplied Jackson with drugs, and they're focusing on five physicians, whom they termed "key enablers."

Los Angeles police have repeatedly interviewed Jackson's personal physician, cardiologist Dr. Conrad Murray, who tried to revive Jackson after finding the singer unconscious with a faint pulse.

Dr. Murray's lawyers denied reports that he gave Jackson an injection of Demerol hours before his death and also say he did not prescribe OxyContin for him. At press time, his lawyers have not commented on whether Dr. Murray treated Jackson with Diprivan.

Sources also told The ENQUIRER that investigators are checking a California medical database, known as CURES (Controlled Substance Utilization Review and Evaluation System), that monitors controlled substances to track down doctors connected to Jackson.

And those doctors could face severe sanctions or even criminal charges.

"Michael Jackson's drug hoard was extremely lethal – enough to kill a person many times over," declared Dr. Mary Ann Malloy, a nationally known cardiologist based in Chicago who never treated Jackson.

"Whatever doctors prescribed these drugs for him – or procured them for him illegally – would certainly be wide open to charges of malpractice and even criminal manslaughter."

Jacko's private chef key figure in death probe

MICHAEL JACKSON's private chef may hold the key to the investigation into the sudden death of the King of Pop!

In a bombshell world exclusive interview, chef Douglas Jones told The ENQUIRER that he saw Dr. Conrad Murray remove several large oxygen tanks from the rented mansion where the 50-year-old singer died June 25. Oxygen is required when administering the anesthetic Diprivan, a powerful drug that is not available by prescription. Numerous bottles of Diprivan were reportedly found in Jackson's home during a police search – and Jones' information could be vital in probing the singer's illegal drug use.

"On two separate occasions, I saw Dr. Murray pushing oxygen tanks through the kitchen and outside to the back of the house," Jones told The ENQUIRER.

"The tanks were large, heavy-duty four-foot green and silver tanks.

preparing lunch, and out the back door. I didn't watch what he did with them, but I thought it was odd, and in light of what I know now, it's obvious something was going on that was probably illegal."

Dr. Murray, a cardiologist who claims he tried to revive the singer after he was found unconscious, has been interviewed by Los Angeles police. At press time, Dr. Murray's lawyers wouldn't comment on whether he administered Diprivan to Jackson.

MICHAEL JACKSON's money-grabbing family are at each other's throats in an ugly war over the King of Pop's multi-million-dollar fortune.

The ENQUIRER has learned the family's grief over Michael's sudden death has turned into a desperate scramble to control his estate.

"They're like jackals fighting over a dead carcass. It's so sad – it would break Michael's heart," declared an insider.

"Everything's up for grabs, and it's getting ugly."

In his will, Michael set up a family trust leaving 40 percent of his assets to his children, and another 40 percent to his mom Katherine. The remaining 20 percent is going to several children's charities.

HE DID NOT LEAVE anything to his brothers and sisters or father – and sources say some family members are already trying to snatch control of assets.

"Although he was always close to his mom, Michael didn't have too much to do with the others in recent years," disclosed the insider.

"First they were battling over the organization of the funeral. Now it's all about the money."

The Jacksons are also cold shouldering Debbie Rowe – the mother of two of Michael's children – his longtime friend Diana Ross and the youngsters' nanny Grace Rwaramba because they see them as threats to the guardianship of Prince Michael, 12, Paris, 11 and 7-year-old Prince Michael II ("Blanket"), revealed a source. Grace and Debbie could also try to get money from the estate.

"Michael naming Diana as back-up guardian and mom has flipped out everyone."

"They were good friends, but for Diana to be considered to raise the children is bizarre. So bizarre, she was unaware she was even named."

"The family just wants Debbie to go away. They feel she got enough from Michael while he was alive. But with Grace it's more difficult because everyone knows the kids love and trust her."

"Katherine and Grace are already bickering over how to handle the kids."

Complicating matters even more, Michael's brothers are making pitches to take care of the children, says the source.

"The monumental interest around the world in anything Michael – especially the staggering surge in his music sales – quickly made it clear to everyone that major bucks are at stake. And now everyone has their hands out."

Despite trying to present himself as the family spokesman, Michael's dad Joe isn't even allowed to stay at the family's Encino compound, divulged the insider.

"Katherine has quietly tolerated Joe for years, but now she's had enough. She wants a divorce and has made him leave the house."

"The family is also

EXCLUSIVE INTERVIEW

But Jones, who worked as Jackson's chef from May 8 until May 30, said he spotted additional oxygen tanks on the property.

"I was talking to the security team outside in the back one day and I noticed four or five oxygen tanks in a shed. They were the same kind of tanks I had seen Dr. Murray pushing a few days before," Jones divulged.

In another odd situation, the physician frequently spent the night at the Jackson home, said Jones.

"Dr. Murray stayed a minimum of five nights a week at the mansion, and it was always overnight. He left in the early morning and returned in the evening," Jones told The ENQUIRER.

"Initially, I thought Dr. Murray and Michael may have been in a relationship because Dr. Murray was there only in the evenings and stayed all night. But I realized later by listening to conversations between them and the other staff that Dr. Murray was Michael's doctor, nothing more."

"IN FACT, MICHAEL TOLD ME in passing he had a 'lady,' but he didn't tell me her name, and I never saw a woman visit him while I was there."

Jones was hired to cook for Jackson and his children – sons Prince Michael, 12, and "Blanket," 7, and daughter Paris, 11 – after his agency received a call seeking an African-American chef for a single, high-profile entertainer with three children.

When Jackson introduced himself to Jones four days after he started the job, the pop star seemed to be under the influence of drugs, the chef said.

"Michael was talking very slow – maybe a slur – and he was walking very slowly. I thought he may have taken some medication or didn't feel well," Jones recalled.

With Jackson apparently under the influence of drugs, his oldest son Prince acted like the head of the household, said Jones.

"Prince basically ran the house. He decided when the family would eat their meals, and he told me when and where to serve them," Jones recalled.

"He also gave me the orders on what to make. He told me whether it would be chicken, fish or turkey – and said it all had to be organic. Little oil and very little butter, he explained, and it had to be fresh, which meant I had to grocery shop every day."

"Michael often ate with the children, but there were days when he was running late. Prince insisted on waiting until his father either got home or called to let him know he would be late."

It was 12-year-old Prince, not Michael, who took charge when the children lost a beloved family pet, Jones revealed.

"THE CHILDREN HAD A BIRD THAT slept in Paris' room. They also had two cats, named Thriller and Katherine, that were supposed to stay outside," said Jones.

"But one night Paris took one of the cats upstairs to sleep in her bed. When she woke up, the bird cage had been knocked over and the bird was missing."

"Michael led us all in a search for the bird, but we found out the cat had killed it. The kids were in mourning the entire day, and no one ate lunch. But later that afternoon, Prince got a small shovel and buried the bird in the backyard."

Despite Jackson's apparent drug use, he acted very lovingly toward his children and set high standards for them, said Jones.

"Michael checked on the kids constantly, except for when they were in class with their teacher," said Jones. "They dressed for their studies like they were attending an Ivy League school – ties and jackets for the boys, and sweaters and skirts for Paris."

But the household's daily routine was disrupted when Jackson's father, Joe, created a disturbance at the estate's front gate one day, Jones revealed.

"I had just arrived for work when the security guard told me to drive around the neighborhood for about five minutes," he said. "They explained Joe had banged on the gate and was yelling and cussing at Michael before driving off."

Jones said he left the job because he couldn't reach financial terms on accompanying the family to England for Jackson's comeback tour.

"The day I heard Michael Jackson had died I was angry, but I was not shocked," he told The ENQUIRER.

Michael's longtime friend, Dr. Arnold Klein, was believed to be the sperm donor for Paris and Prince Michael (right)

Michael's children NOT fathered by dermatologist pal

Michael and Arnie always laughed whenever they heard that old rumor

MORE MICHAEL JACKSON - See page 34

THE REAL father of Michael Jackson's first two children is NOT his dermatologist!

It was recently reported that Michael's longtime friend, Beverly Hills dermatologist Dr. Arnold Klein, fathered Prince Michael and Paris.

The two kids are actually the offspring of an anonymous sperm donor chosen by Michael, The ENQUIRER has learned exclusively.

After painstakingly reviewing dozens of profiles of potential sperm donors, Michael selected "a good-looking white dentist from Pennsylvania who had an extremely high I.Q.," divulged a close family friend.

As for the report that Dr. Klein is the kids' father, "Michael and Arnie always laughed whenever they heard that old rumor. They joked about it," said the friend.

In choosing a sperm donor, Michael closely examined family histories, educational backgrounds and medical and psychiatric records of potential donors to make sure there was no potential for genetic physical or mental problems, revealed the friend.

Michael chose good friend Debbie Rowe, Dr. Klein's medical assistant, to be the biological mother of his two older children. She was the one who suggested using a sperm bank, says the family friend.

After Debbie was artificially inseminated, Michael and Debbie married on Nov. 15, 1996. Prince Michael Jr. was born on Feb. 13, 1997.

Debbie went through another in vitro procedure later that year with the same sperm donor, and Paris was born on April 3, 1998.

KATE'S RAGE AS KIDS PLAY WITH JON'S GIRLFRIEND

Deanna Hummel's secret visits to family home while mom was out of town

JON GOSSELIN brought his girlfriend to the family home to meet his children – and when his wife Kate found out, she went berserk with rage. The ENQUIRER has learned exclusively.

The Gosselins' TLC series "Jon & Kate Plus 8" has been on hiatus since the couple's dramatic announcement that they're splitting up, and the behind-the-scenes drama exploded after Kate learned Jon had introduced attractive brunette Deanna Hummel to the kids while she was out of town, sources say.

Deanna, a 23-year-old elementary school teacher, had already gotten under Kate's skin when she was photographed sunbathing in a bikini at the Gosselins' $1.1 million Pennsylvania estate in April, insiders say. And when Kate, 34, realized her kids had met and bonded with Jon's new squeeze, she lashed out at him, sources say.

"Deanna likes the kids, and the kids like playing with her. Jon introduced her as his 'special friend,'" a Gosselin family insider divulged.

"She was at the house several times while Kate was away on her book tour, and she gave Jon a hand with the kids. They all seemed to have fun and enjoyed each others' company.

"It was bad enough when Kate saw the pictures of Deanna in a bikini at her house, but when she found out Jon had Deanna playing with her kids, she threw a fit."

Deanna's experience as a third-grade teacher helped endear her to the eight Gosselin kids – 8-year-old twins Mady and Cara, plus the 5-year-old sextuplets, Alexis, Aaden, Collin, Leah, Hannah and Joel, according to the source.

"BUT SHE HAD THE BIGGEST EFFECT on Mady, who is usually slow to warm to strangers," the source divulged.

"They all played hide-and-seek, and while most of the kids were thrilled to have Deanna find them, Mady was happy only if she was on Deanna's team, helping to find the other kids. Mady glued herself to Deanna and even boasted to Kate about how much fun she had with 'daddy's friend.'

Kate was incensed. "Kate freaked out that Jon didn't tell her that he was having Deanna over and she had to find out through her daughter," said the source.

"She was also jealous because the kids liked Deanna. Kate always wants to be the center of attention, and she's afraid that the kids will like Jon's other women more than they like her."

As The ENQUIRER recently reported, Kate's brother Kevin Kreider claimed Kate made Jon sign an agreement that allowed him to date in exchange for continuing the show. But she never imagined Jon would dare bring any of his girlfriends home to meet their kids, according to a family friend. Besides Deanna, Jon has also been out on dates recently with Hailey Glassman, the 22-year-old daughter of Kate's plastic surgeon.

"NOW IT'S BEGINNING TO SINK in that Kate is not only losing her husband, but her kids could have another mother figure in their lives," said the friend.

"She told Jon that if he ever brings Deanna home again, she's going to amend the divorce papers to get temporary possession of the house so he can't bring any of his 'home wreckers' around her children. But Jon being Jon, he just blew it off. He doesn't believe Kate will do anything to jeopardize the show. If he wants to bring women around and introduce them to his children, he will, and Kate can't do anything about it."

Meanwhile, as The ENQUIRER reported in our June 6 issue, Jon is open to having more children with somebody besides Kate. And according to the insider, Deanna is ready to be a mom.

"Deanna loves being around Jon's kids," said the insider, "and she'd love to eventually have kids of her own with him."

OCTOMOM'S KID ATTACKS GRANDMOTHER WITH A KNIFE

I've begged my daughter to get help for this child

Angela Suleman

Nadya doesn't know how to be a mother, according to a family friend

EXCLUSIVE INTERVIEW

ONE of Nadya Suleman's older children attacked his grandmother with a steak knife, The ENQUIRER has learned exclusively.

Her son has also kicked his younger brother Caleb, 2, in the head — but the beleaguered Octomom refuses to discipline him, nor does she allow others to do so, sources say.

"I've begged my daughter to get help for this child before he hurts someone, but she won't listen to me," Nadya's anguished mother Angela Suleman told The ENQUIRER in an exclusive interview.

"He goes into wild rages and becomes uncontrollable. He went after me with a knife, and he's thrown hard objects at me. But Nadya will not discipline him because she's afraid of provoking him into even more of a rage."

The boy exploded at his grandmother when she tried to discipline him shortly after the octuplets' birth in January, said a source.

"He screamed at Angela, 'I'll kill you!' and grabbed a steak knife," a family friend of the Sulemans told The ENQUIRER.

"FIRST, HE BEGAN STABBING AT HER and then, when he didn't connect, he began slashing at her wildly. Nadya, who rarely disciplines the children, just sat and watched.

"Angela finally managed to wrestle the knife away from the troubled child. But then he ran at her, kicking and punching."

Terrified, Angela — a 69-year-old retired schoolteacher — tried to escape her rampaging grandson by fleeing down a hallway.

"But the out-of-control boy followed her, throwing punches at her," said the family friend.

"Angela ran into her bedroom, locked the door and stayed there for 10 minutes."

Nadya's son attacked his grandmother another time when his siblings were visiting the newborn octuplets at the hospital, said the source. "He shoved Angela into a wall. She fell down and hurt her arm," said the family friend. "And when the child got mad at his little brother Caleb, he karate kicked him in the head."

"When Nadya's father Ed is around, he yells at his grandson. But then Nadya yells at Ed, telling him not to interfere."

Older child's savage rages go unpunished, says Angela Suleman

Angela Suleman — who no longer lives with 34-year-old Nadya and her 14 children — believes her grandson is acting out because he's depressed.

"This boy was used to getting his mother's attention. But now Nadya's new house is full of new babies, and Nadya doesn't have time for him," she told The ENQUIRER.

The family friend also blasts Nadya, saying: "Nadya doesn't know how to be a mother. She spews a lot of psychobabble instead of correcting the children. To be honest, I'm worried about the kids with Nadya."

ENQUIRER EXCLUSIVE

4-3-2-1 GO! YOU CAN SHED WEIGHT LIKE 'BIGGEST LOSERS'

YOU can slim down just like "The Biggest Loser" with an expert diet plan developed exclusively for ENQUIRER readers!

Fans of the hit NBC series trying to lose weight can pay $120 plus shipping costs for a five-day plan of prepared meals delivered to them weekly. But the weight-loss plan similar to the "Biggest Loser's" famed 4-3-2-1 program – and featured here – costs about half the price!

"The 4-3-2-1 plan is the ideal way to go," Ellen Kamhi, author of the "Definitive Guide to Weight Loss," tells The ENQUIRER. "It's simple and effective, and easy to follow at home. The key is eating a healthy, fruit- and vegetable-based diet that relies on frequent, hunger-busting mini-meals."

"THE 4-3-2-1 PLAN INCLUDES FOUR servings of fruits and vegetables a day, three servings of lean protein, two servings of whole grains and one 'extra' treat to sweeten the pie!"
That treat could be a snack of low-fat chocolate milk, sugar-free gelatin or air-popped corn, she said.
"The beauty of a diet based on fruits and vegetables is that you will not only lose weight, but reduce blood pressure and cholesterol as well," pointed out Kamhi, who's also known as the Natural Nurse.
"In fact, these clean, natural foods actually boost your metabolism so that you burn calories more effectively. There is no starvation or deprivation. So psychologically, you don't feel as if you are on a diet."

Preparation is the key to the plan's success, said Kamhi.

"Put cut-up salads, cooked meats and steamed vegetables in 'take-out' containers in your fridge that you can 'grab and go' with no extra cost," she said.
"By following this plan at home and choosing your own fresh fruits and veggies in season, you can save at least $50 a week."

The plan's daily calorie count ranges from 1,200 to 1,800 calories. For most people, that results in a weekly weight loss of at least 2 pounds. If you want to lose weight faster, eliminate one snack.

Snacks, especially at night, proved to be the biggest challenge for contestants on "The Biggest Loser."
"I finally learned to satisfy my sweet tooth with fruit instead of rich desserts and pastries," says Ruben Hernandez, who lost 81 pounds on "The Biggest Loser 2."

For handy, wholesome snacking, fill small food storage bags with sliced fruit, chopped veggies or nuts – about 10 per serving, said Kamhi.

"I ALSO RECOMMEND ADDING AT least 30 minutes of daily exercise to help peel off pounds and boost your cardiovascular system and metabolism so you burn calories more effectively," she says.

That daily workout could include brisk walking, swimming or biking, she said. And to help your digestive system work effectively, drink at least six 8-ounce glasses of water daily.

Here is The ENQUIRER's five-day plan similar to The Biggest Loser Club guidelines. When you become accustomed to the portion size, adapt the diet to include your favorite foods. Remember that a 4-ounce portion of meat or fish is about the size of a deck of cards or the palm of your hand. For the rest of the portion sizes, 1/2 cup means 4 oz., so measure carefully.

The fearless feline got to the ledge through a narrow window opening

Oops! Lucky loses his footing

After landing on a lounge chair, the injured kitty limps to a nearby grill

END OF THE FALL

PURR-FECT LANDING

Lucky the cat lives up to his name after walking away from 26-STORY PLUNGE OFF LEDGE

CURIOSITY almost killed Lucky the cat, but he lived up to his name when he fell 26 stories from a high-rise apartment... and survived!

Although the adorable feline suffered a broken jaw, a broken toe and a collapsed lung, he's back on his feet after spending five days in a veterinary hospital.

"He's doing great. He's eating and running around the apartment like his old self. He's awesome," Lucky's owner Keri Hostetler told The ENQUIRER.

Keri, 30, lives on the 32nd floor of a Manhattan apartment building with her husband Andrew. They got Lucky, a 3-year-old Bengal cat, as a kitten from a pet store.

"WHILE WE WERE DEBATING NAMES, he jumped from the couch to the dining room table, slid all the way across and stopped right on the very edge. We said, 'Wow! That was incredibly lucky' - and that's how he got his name," she said.

Little did they know that Lucky would someday live up to his name in a much more dramatic fashion. On May 13, Lucky slipped out an open window while Keri was airing out a bedroom.

"I thought I'd shut the bedroom door while I went downstairs to do some laundry. But when I came back up, I saw the bedroom door was open, and Lucky was missing," said Keri, who runs a sports camp for kids.

Even though the window was cracked just a few inches, Lucky squeezed through and climbed out on the window ledge.

Window washer John Hayes was working on a high-rise directly across the street and captured Lucky's high-flying adventure on camera.

When Keri rushed to the open window, Hayes and his partner waved to her and shouted that the cat had fallen, but was still alive.

LUCKY HAD landed on a lounge chair, cracking it in half. Then he got up and walked a few steps to a grill cover and curled up inside. Keri found him there and rushed him to the vet.

Keri is thrilled that Lucky is back on his feet.

"People can't believe he fell 26 stories and lived," she said. "They say, 'You should change his name to Miracle.'"

MICHAEL JACKSON'S "secret son" – devastated over the King of Pop's sudden death – is planning to have a DNA test that could put him in legal contention for a huge chunk of the singer's estate, The ENQUIRER has learned exclusively.

Omer Bhatti, 24, wants to find out "once and for all" whether he's Jackson's biological son, reveal sources. It has been reported that Omer, a close friend of Michael, was conceived in a one-night stand between Jackson and a Norwegian fan. Under a secret agreement with the boy's mother, Jackson moved Omer into his Neverland home in 1997 – and the boy ended up living on and off with the entertainer for the next few years and even appeared on stage with him. The two often dressed in identical clothing. "Michael's death has propelled Omer to seek the answer to a question he's wrestled with his entire life: Is Michael his father?" a close source told The ENQUIRER.

"Omer is mourning Michael's passing, but when that subsides, he's determined to have a DNA test."

THE YOUNGER MAN HAD BEEN billing himself as a hip-hop musician called O-bee. After Jackson died, Omer proclaimed on a Web site: "We have lost a family member."

When The ENQUIRER contacted members of Omer's family July 2 at his home in Oslo, we were told: "Omer is too distraught to talk at this moment."

It's clear there was a special bond between the two.

The ENQUIRER disclosed that the boy flew to Tunisia in 1996 to meet Jackson when the singer arrived there on his HIStory world tour.

"And Omer was going to surprise Michael on his scheduled comeback concerts," revealed the close source. "He was going to go onstage with him and recapture the moment when they sang and danced together back at the HIStory concert."

"Omer doesn't care about the hundreds of millions in Michael's will – he just wants to know if Michael is really his dad."

ENQUIRER alone with 13+ years of scoops on Michael's health

BEFORE Michael Jackson died, The National ENQUIRER was virtually alone in sounding the alarm about Michael Jackson's drug use and health problems.

In the wake of the superstar's death, reports continue to emerge about his prescription drug addictions, suspected anorexia and other health woes – but The ENQUIRER revealed those details years ago. In a blockbuster story published in our issue dated June 22, 1999, we reported that the King of Pop was addicted to a powerful painkiller – and was regularly hooked to an intravenous drip that pumped the prescription narcotic Demerol into his veins.

Recent reports say Jackson weighed less than 110 pounds when he died and may have suffered from anorexia. But we disclosed that he was secretly battling the devastating eating disorder in a front-page story published MORE THAN 13 YEARS AGO, in our Dec. 26, 1995 issue.

"He's anorexic and often goes days without eating," a close friend revealed at the time. Sources told us the condition was the reason Jackson collapsed while rehearsing the song

"Black or White" for an HBO special. Shortly after Jackson died, reports surfaced that he was not the biological father of his oldest son Prince Michael, 12, and daughter Paris, 11.

BUT ENQUIRER READERS ALREADY KNEW that Jackson's ex-wife Debbie Rowe conceived both children with the help of a sperm donor. We revealed that fact in a story published on Dec. 30, 2003.

The ENQUIRER was also first to disclose that Jackson's health problems and drug use could prove fatal. In an amazingly prophetic article in our Jan. 12, 2009, issue, we reported that friends feared the 50-year-old pop superstar had just six months to live. Sadly, Jackson passed away on June 25.

Time and again, The ENQUIRER has been the ONLY media outlet that provided on-target details about his health – and stepped forward with an early warning of his tragic end.

So where does the rest of the media get its "scoops" about Michael Jackson? The same place you do – The ENQUIRER!

Two lucky readers will win PERSONALLY AUTOGRAPHED MICHAEL JACKSON ALBUMS

These valuable collector's items each come with a certificate of authenticity

AFTER Michael Jackson's shocking death, demand for memorabilia from the King of Pop skyrocketed – and so did prices. But now, two lucky ENQUIRER readers will receive a rare personal keepsake from the singer worth thousands of dollars!

The ENQUIRER has obtained two hand-signed Michael Jackson albums – "Thriller" and "Bad" – from one of the most reputable memorabilia dealers in the world, New York City-based Grandstand Sports & Memorabilia, Inc. (www.grandstandsports.com). The company's president and founder, Howard Schwartz, is regularly called upon as an expert in the trade and has appeared on CBS News, FOX and CNBC.

Each personally autographed album comes with a "certificate of authenticity."

Michael's 1982 "Thriller" is the best-selling album of all time, with estimated sales of up to 109 million worldwide. With hits such as "Billie Jean," "Beat It" and "Thriller," the album earned Michael a record-breaking seven Grammy awards.

"Bad" has sold more than 30 million copies since its 1987 release. It is the only album in music history to feature five "Billboard" Hot 100 No. 1 singles, including "Bad" and "Man in the Mirror." The ENQUIRER will hold a random drawing to determine the two contest winners.

One winner will receive a signed copy of "Thriller," and the other winner will get a signed copy of "Bad."

Entries must be received by August 19, 2009. To enter, please fill out the coupon to the right, or send us a postcard.

HOLLYWOOD MOURNS LOSS OF 2 LEGENDS

KARL MALDEN

Actor cherished role on 'West Wing' more than Oscar & Emmy

VETERAN stage and screen star Karl Malden won an Oscar and an Emmy, but one of his most cherished roles was his last – a small part on the White House drama "The West Wing," his longtime agent told The ENQUIRER.

"Karl had a very touching scene with the show's star Martin Sheen on 'The West Wing' in 2000," said his manager Bud Moss.

"He portrayed a Catholic priest who was trying to get the president (Sheen) to pardon a young man on death row.

"It was classic Karl, fighting for the common man. He was fabulous. He hadn't acted in a while, and the role really rejuvenated him.

"He even used the same Bible that he did when he played Father Corrigan in 'On the Waterfront.'"

Malden was born Mladen Sekulovich in Chicago on March 22, 1912. Fed up with working in the steel mills of Gary, Ind., he enrolled in acting school and started gaining notice in the late 1930s on Broadway.

He won the Academy Award for Best Supporting Actor in 1951 for "A Streetcar Named Desire," and appeared in more than 50 films. He also won an Emmy in 1985 for the miniseries "Fatal Vision."

He then was nominated for four Emmys for his role as detective Lt. Mike Stone in the 1970s TV series "The Streets of

At the same time, Malden began his famous catchphrase "Don't leave home without it" campaign for American Express.

When he passed away on July 1, the 97-year-old actor was surrounded by his family – Mona, his wife of 70 years, and his daughters Mila and Carla, said Moss.

"Karl just fell asleep and slipped away quietly at 2:30 a.m.," said Moss. "He was a great joy to know and to work with. He will definitely be missed."

Grateful to the end for her career in showbiz, Gale herself painstakingly wrote back to every fan, even when her hands became crippled with excruciating arthritis in her later years.

"Gale loved the attention, and she filled her days writing thoughtful letters to her fans," Hollywood publicist Tommy Garrett, a close friend of her family, told The ENQUIRER.

"The last three years were very rough on her. Her fingers were knotted and curled, and she could barely hold a pen, but she couldn't rest until she acknowledged all her mail.

"Gale would constantly send donations to children's charities and was very active in the Toys for Tots program. She never forgot what a blessed life she led."

her ex-partner Jessica Nichols.

Then she skinned the innocent pooch and started tanning its hide.

"She had a falling-out with her former lover and decided she was going to make a belt out of the dog and wear it like a trophy," said Deputy Roberson.

"When have you known me to have a heart?" Krystal reportedly told her stunned former girlfriend Jessica.

Jessica had given the pup to Krystal because she had to move from her home and could no longer take care of him. When she later asked for the return of her little dog, her ex-lover refused.

Then in late June, Krystal told her pal to shoot little Joplin, charge officials.

Jessica got the shock of her life when her ex-girlfriend boasted of her incredible act of cruelty, according to authorities.

A stunned Jessica told a local newspaper she refused to believe Krystal could be that coldblooded – until she saw a photo of the carcass. "I wasn't sure she had done it until I opened the newspaper and saw the picture of my puppy's skin hanging there."

COPS FOUND THE DOG'S white-and-black hide pinned to a board and left to dry on a patio outside Krystal's apartment.

"We're talking about a 7-week-old defenseless puppy," said an outraged Deputy Roberson. "That's pretty heinous and sadistic."

Both Krystal and her pal Mullins admitted killing the puppy and skinning it, say authorities.

They were both slapped with felony animal-cruelty charges and held on $25,000 bail. A judge ordered a mental competency hearing for both. If convicted, the duo face up to five years in jail and $5,000 in fines.

Muskogee County District Attorney Larry Moore told The ENQUIRER: "Public opinion is outraged at these crimes, and the two accused will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law."

Sometimes urine marking will also take place. A more serious consequence of not spaying is the possibility of the cat developing a condition known as pyometra later in life. With this disease, the uterus fills Erase Wrinkles Without Botox®!

Breakthrough anti-aging cream combines three scientifically advanced wrinkle-reducing ingredients to rival the results of Botox®.

In recent years Botox® has been promoted as the leader of anti-wrinkle treatments. Although it can be successful, it is very expensive, painful, must be administered by a physician, and, in many cases, two to three treatments are needed for the desired corrections. After years of research and testing, a new safe, more affordable product offering comparable results is now available.

Why Choose Hydroxatone®
PRODUCT	Hydroxatone®	Olay® Regenerist®	Strivectin SD®
Argireline® SM (Acetyl Hexapeptide-3)	YES	NO	NO
Matrixyl™ 3000®	YES	NO	NO
Hyaluronic Acid	YES	NO	NO

Most Advanced Anti-Aging Product Available

Hydroxatone® is a true, clinically proven Botox® alternative. It is a superior facial cream that can reduce deep wrinkles, and it's completely non-toxic, safe and has no side effects. How can it rival Botox®? Hydroxatone® contains three of the most effective substances known that are needed for real results. Most products use one or two of these important ingredients, but the makers of Hydroxatone® are the first to combine all three, resulting in the most advanced skin care and wrinkle reducer on the market.

HOW Hydroxatone® WORKS

MATRIXYL™ 3000® + ARGIRELINE® + HYALURONIC ACID

- 60% reduction of deep wrinkles in just six months
- Diminished age spots & increased suppleness
- Enhanced production of healthy, radiant new skin
- Tightened and toned skin

Matrixyl™ 3000® – is clinically proven to promote collagen production in the skin.

Argireline® – is a combination of amino acids formulated to relax facial wrinkles, reduce the degree of existing wrinkles and stop their future development.

Hyaluronic Acid – is virtually unmatched in hydrating the skin, resulting in increased smoothness, softening, elasticity and decreased facial wrinkles.

What Our Customers Have To Say About Hydroxatone®...

"Within two weeks of using Hydroxatone®, I was getting compliments on my skin from friends and co-workers. My skin not only feels great, but it looks great too! You've made me a Hydroxatone® believer!"

— Robin B., Los Angeles

Three Proven Wrinkle-Reducing Ingredients

Hydroxatone® is unlike any other skin cream you've ever tried because it relies on THREE proven ingredients for REAL results. Matrixyl™ 3000® is clinically proven to promote collagen production in the skin. Collagen is the most powerful substance known to help keep skin stay young, soft and vibrant. Argireline® is a combination of amino acids formulated to relax facial wrinkles, reduce the degree of existing wrinkles and stop their future development. And Hyaluronic Acid is virtually unmatched in hydrating the skin, resulting in increased smoothness, softening, elasticity and decreased facial wrinkles. But Hydroxatone® doesn't stop there! It also includes other natural antioxidants, botanicals, vitamins, and peptides and a gentle but powerful exfoliant...all to nourish your skin while fading wrinkles.

Up To 68% Reduction Of Deep Wrinkles

Unless you've actually tried Hydroxatone®, it's hard to imagine it does. But women and men of all ages are using Hydroxatone® and seeing real and noticeable results every day. The cumulative results that are seen within two weeks will continue with daily use.

Having A Hard Time Finding Hydroxatone®?

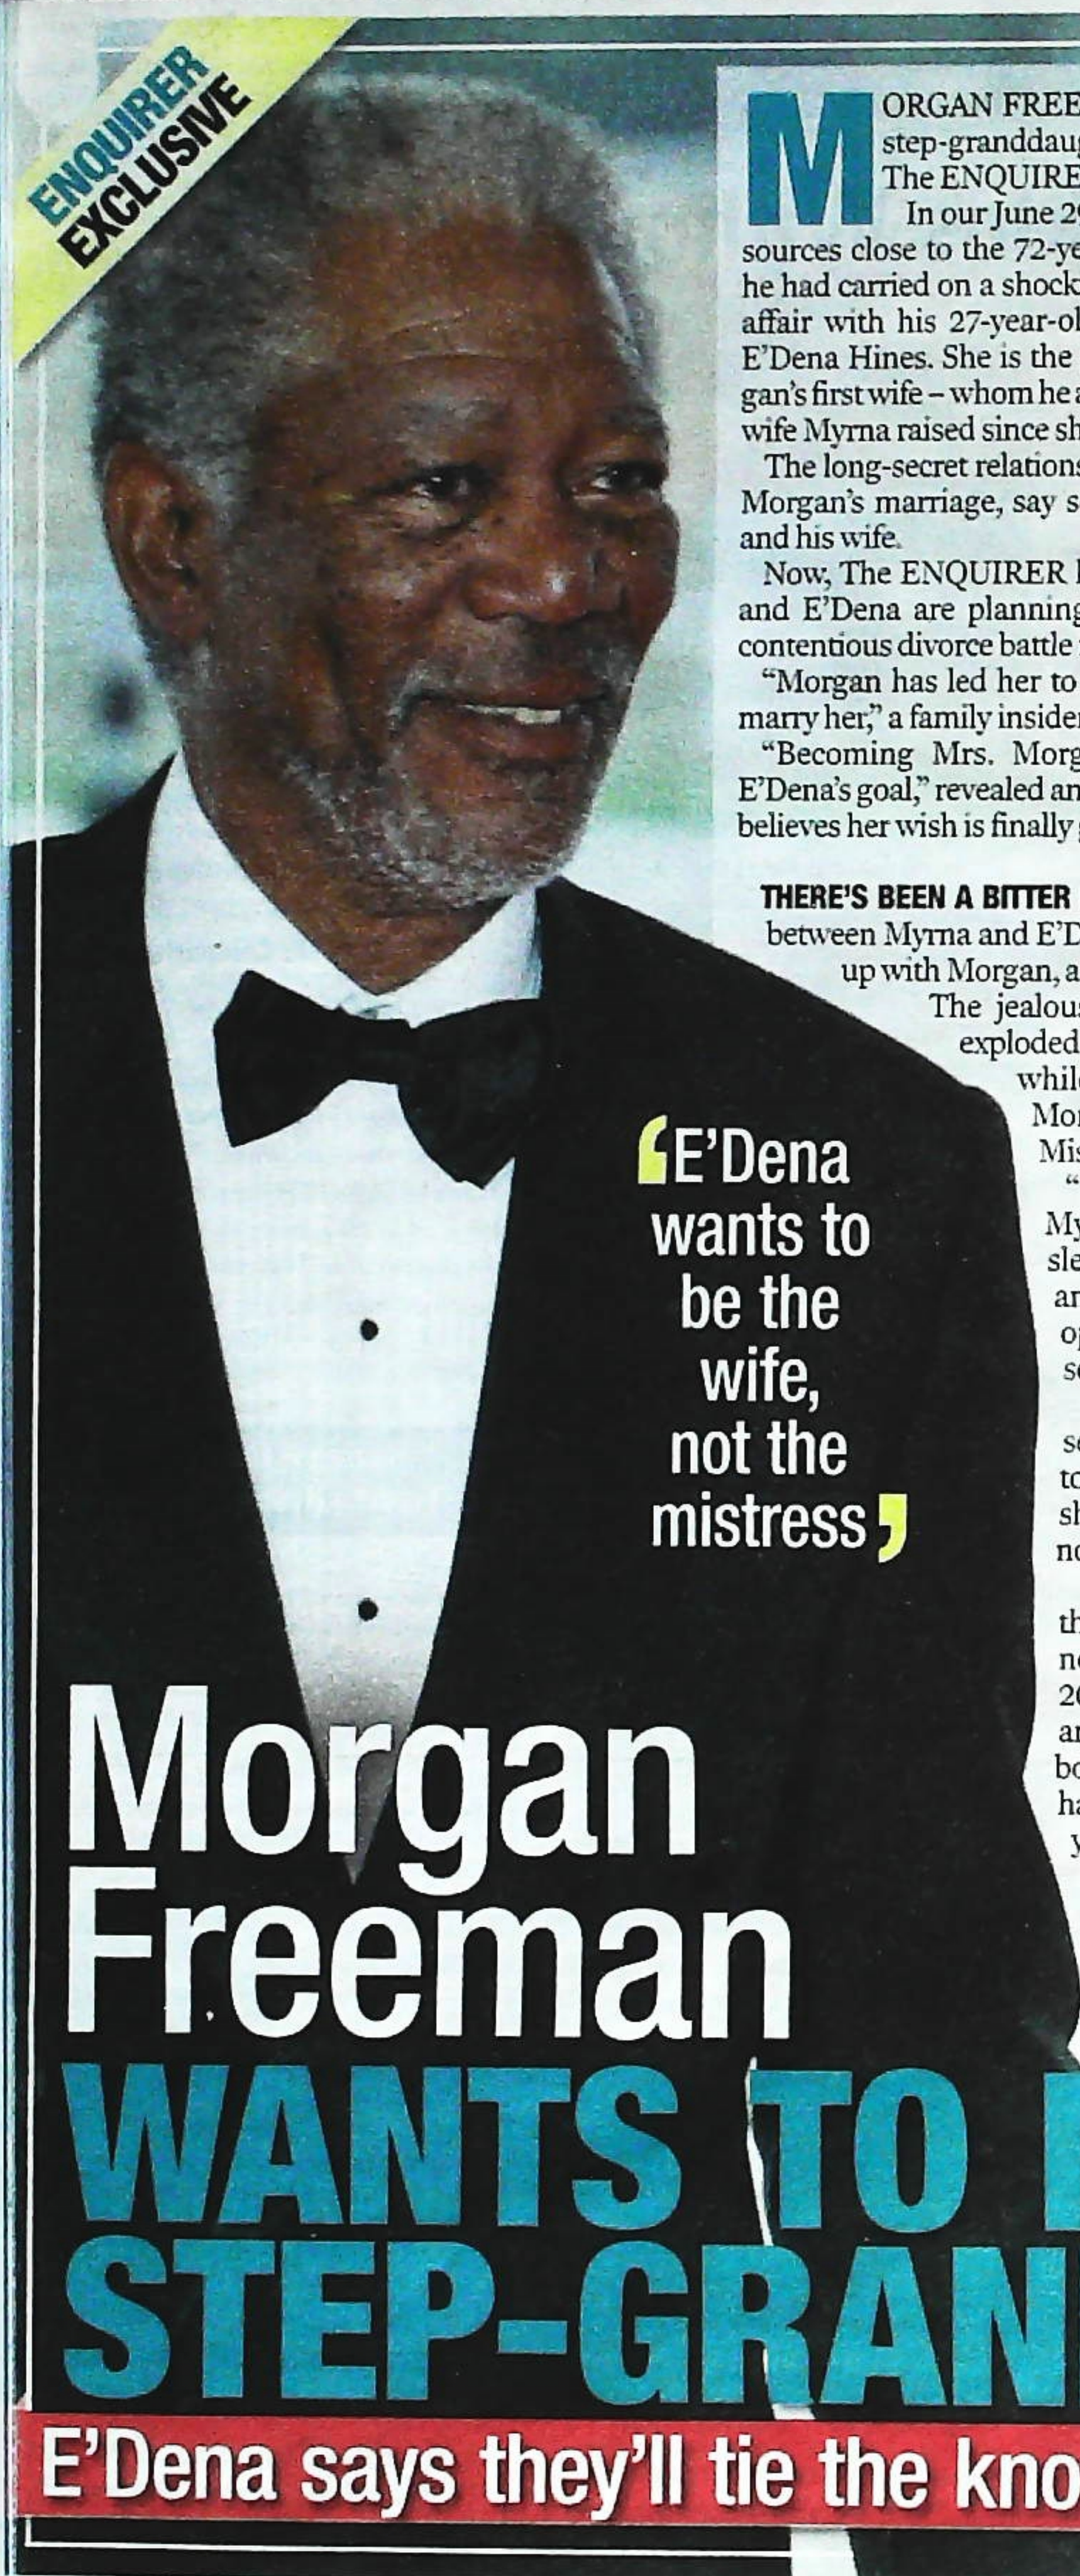

For years consumers have only had expensive and ineffective alternatives to achieve younger looking skin. You may have seen other inferior anti-wrinkle products costing hundreds of dollars at some high priced salons. Unlike those pricey and unproven alternatives, the manufacturer of Hydroxatone® is so confident in their anti-aging technology that they are offering a 30-day risk free trial offer...because seeing is believing!

To get your supply of Hydroxatone® risk free, for just a small shipping and processing fee call 888-240-6014. Our operators are available to let you try one of the greatest breakthroughs in wrinkle fighting technology without spending hundreds of dollars.

ENQUIRER
EXCLUSIVE

MORGAN FREEMAN plans to marry his step-granddaughter, family sources told The ENQUIRER exclusively.

In our June 29 issue, we revealed that sources close to the 72-year-old actor claim that he had carried on a shocking, nearly decade-long affair with his 27-year-old step-granddaughter, E'Dena Hines. She is the granddaughter of Morgan's first wife – whom he and his estranged second wife Myrna raised since she was a young child.

The long-secret relationship led to the breakup of Morgan's marriage, say sources close to Freeman and his wife.

Now, The ENQUIRER has learned that Morgan and E'Dena are planning to wed after Morgan's contentious divorce battle is over!

"Morgan has led her to believe that he wants to marry her," a family insider told The ENQUIRER.

"Becoming Mrs. Morgan Freeman has been E'Dena's goal," revealed another family source. "She believes her wish is finally going to come true."

THERE'S BEEN A BITTER COMPETITION FOR YEARS between Myrna and E'Dena over who would end up with Morgan, according to the insider.

The jealousy between the women exploded during Christmas 2006, while E'Dena was visiting Morgan and Myrna at their Mississippi farm.

"E'Dena screamed at Myrna, 'You're not even sleeping with him, but I am!' It was blatant and open fighting," said the source.

E'Dena has made no secret about her intention to marry Morgan, saying she "wants to be the wife, not the mistress."

Myrna, 68, has admitted that she and Morgan have not shared a bed since 2001, and that they had an open marriage – with both Morgan and Myrna having other partners. For years, Morgan carried on an affair with former schoolteacher Mary Joyce Hays at the same time he was romancing E'Dena.

E'Dena
was raised by Morgan and Myrna

Myrna was stunned when she learned a decade ago that Morgan had tried to sleep with E'Dena when she was still a teenager. Myrna confronted him, and he said he would leave her alone.

At the time, Morgan chose to stay in his marriage – which infuriated E'Dena, according to the source.

"Myrna said, 'E'Dena was angry at me because he chose me instead of her,'" said the source.

But despite his promises to stay away from E'Dena, the relationship continued and is STILL going on, sources tell The ENQUIRER.

Years later, when Myrna realized they were still intimate, she became so enraged that she threatened to sue E'Dena as "correspondent, as an adulterer, in my marriage" if she did not convince Morgan to go into family therapy and end the affair.

Myrna also wanted Morgan to explain to E'Dena that the relationship between them was wrong, but Morgan refused.

"Morgan told Myrna, 'I can't do that. I love her. That would be saying that I didn't love her,'" said the source. "Now Morgan has convinced E'Dena that he will marry her, just as soon as his divorce is finalized, and she believes him."

Freeman – who won an Academy Award for his role in the 2004 movie "Million Dollar Baby" – has not commented on The ENQUIRER's revelations about his relationship with his step-granddaughter.

DRESSED to THRILL

ROSIE PEREZ

A cut-out embellishment spices up the Brooklyn-born bombshell's maxi dress at the 20th anniversary screening of "Do the Right Thing." Can you believe Rosie is 44? She looks terrific.

MARION COTILLARD

The Paris-born beauty goes British at the London premiere of "Public Enemies" - choosing a fiery satin Vivienne Westwood frock with a folded bodice and faux leather Stella McCartney clutch.

RIHANNA

Rihanna rocks a sweat shirt! The pop singer shows off her endless legs in Alexander Wang's sweat shirt dress and futuristic heels by Giuseppe Zanotti. Props to her for making it down those steps without falling flat on her face!

JEWEL

I think Jewel has her hands on her hips for balance - otherwise, she'd tumble off those platform shoes! Her multipatterned scarf dress reminds me of an apron my grandmother wore, but it's a cool choice for a summer gala.

ALICIA KEYS

Alicia is positively smokin' in an embroidered mini by Jenny Packham at the BET Awards. Covering her arms draws attention to her legs, and the fringed hemline adds even more heat to every step she takes.

SELENA GOMEZ

Sweet 16 and never been dissed! The Disney darling is absolutely age appropriate in a delicate, off-the-shoulder dress that shows just the right amount of skin.

CHERYL BURKE

The "Dancing with the Stars" pro glows in a bubble dress that complements her skin tone perfectly! Love how the graphic pattern catches the light. And her accessories are just the right color, too.

OMAROSA MANIGAULT

She's so easy to hate, especially in this cotton candy concoction that only a kindergartner could love.

YOUR HEALTH by REGINALD FITZ & LAURIE MILLER

★ Children up to the age of 4 fare better in car accidents when they are in rear-facing car seats according to research out of the University of Virginia.

Infants are usually switched from a rear- to a forward-facing car seat when they reach about 20 pounds or about 1 year of age, but new data suggests that it is safer to delay the switch until age 4.

An analysis of 870 children under the age of 2 involved in car accidents found that those in forward-facing car seats were four times more likely to be injured.

Car seat safety alert

INSOMNIA nightmare

★ Insomnia can be deadly – particularly for men. Researchers from Penn State College of Medicine followed almost 2,000 men and women for more than a decade, after they were initially examined in a sleep laboratory.

The results: Men with insomnia who slept five to six hours a night had a five times higher risk of dying during the study period compared to those who slept six or more hours. Women, however, were not significantly affected.

"This confirms something we've been concerned about for a long time – that insomnia probably does cause health problems," says Dr. Carl Boethel, a sleep disorder researcher from Texas A&M Health Science Center.

★ If you want to be a good employee, don't be a hero – stay home if you're sick.

A study of more than 6,000 workers found that employees who repeatedly went to work despite feeling sick risk poor health in the long run.

Those who continued to work when sick more than five days a year were at a 40 to 50 percent higher risk of missing at least 30 days the following year due to illness.

Researchers believe staying home when sick promotes long-term health.

SICK?
Stay home!

Cell phone ELBOW

★ Gabbing for long periods of time on your cell phone can lead to a bad case of "cell phone elbow."

"Repetitive, sustained stretching of the nerve is like stepping on a garden hose," explains Dr. Peter Evans, director of the Cleveland Clinic's Hand and Upper Extremity Center.

"With the hose, you're blocking the flow of water. With the elbow, you're blocking the blood flow to the nerve, which causes it to misfire and short-circuit."

People first notice numbness, tingling or aching in the forearm and hand, but symptoms can progress to loss of muscle strength and coordination.

Using a hands-free headset can usually eliminate this problem.

Trying to diet... eat breakfast

★ Don't skip breakfast

when dieting – it can make your brain crave high-calorie foods. People think they can knock off a few extra pounds by eliminating breakfast – but they're actually tricking their brain into craving higher calorie foods.

"It may be that when you miss meals, and maybe particularly breakfast, your brain reward system is biased toward these high-calorie foods over the low-calorie foods," says Dr. Anthony Goldstone, from Imperial College London.

"We find that when people are fasting, they prefer high-calorie foods to low-calorie foods."

Dr. Goldstone says the findings are based on brain imaging data which supports current medical advice to eat a healthy breakfast to prevent weight gain.

Luke Kirby

Labor Pains
(Made-for-TV Movie Premiere)
Sunday, July 19, 8 p.m. ET, ABC Family
Lindsay Lohan pregnant? Well, actually her character is. Wait a minute! Her character isn't, either! Thea (Lohan), a lowly publishing assistant, says she's pregnant to stop her boss from firing her. So she talks the talk and walks the waddle until the charade goes too far and Thea is tempted to tell the truth. But when her "indicate condition" gets her promoted, put in charge of publicity for a pregnancy book and sparks a possible romance with her handsome manager (Luke Kirby) – the show simply must go on. Lohan's comedic talents really shine in this labor of love story.

HGTV Design Star (Season Premiere)

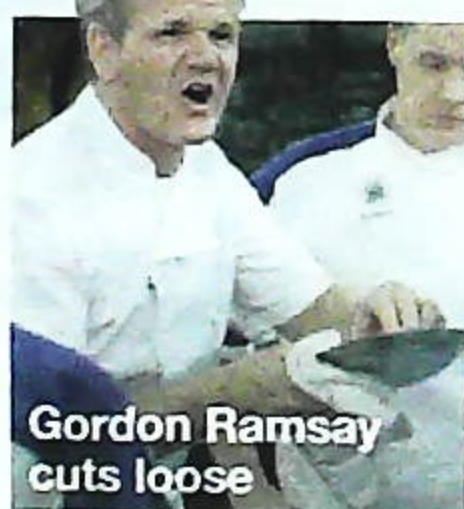

Sunday, July 19, 10 p.m. ET, HGTV
"Design Star" gets a fourth season makeover as HGTV stars Genevieve Gorder ("Dear Genevieve") and Candice Olson ("Divine Design") join judge Vern Yip, creating a perfect critical ensemble who will ultimately decide which of the 11 finalists will win their own HGTV show. Tonight's task: Design a home once lived in by Marilyn Monroe, Frank Sinatra and Lucille Ball. One finalist collapses under the pressure while another puts up shocking pink wooden geese on the living room wall. Will his birds fly with the judges? With celebrity home makeovers, including Kathy Griffin's house, and surprise twists down every corridor, this is the most stunning "Design Star" season yet.

Hell's Kitchen (Season Premiere)

Tuesday, July 21, 8 p.m. ET, FOX
Get ready to go through "Hell" again with what has got to be the most intense 2-hour season premiere in the history of "Hell's Kitchen." On the cooking line: the Head Chef position at Araxi Restaurant in Whistler, British Columbia, Canada. Surprises include a special dinner guest from last season who's asked back to compete when Chef Gordon Ramsay kicks one chef out of the kitchen on the very first night! And another chef challenges Ramsay to a fist fight! A word of advice: Don't eat before watching this premiere because your stomach will be in knots within the first 10 minutes!

In Plain Sight

Sunday, July 19, 10 p.m. ET,
USA Network
Legendary actor Martin Landau may just be adding an Emmy next to his Oscar and Golden Globes for this tough and tender portrayal of an extremely mature Mafioso who's willing to walk out of the Witness Protection Program to go to his son's funeral. U.S. Marshal Mann (Frederick Weller) goes along for the ride, just in case the old wise guy runs into any very old enemies. And with Marshal Mary Shannon (Mary McCormack) dropping a huge bombshell on her boyfriend, Raphael (Cristian de la Fuente), that will blow fans away, this episode of "In Plain Sight" is extraordinary.

DREW PETERSON TRIAL

PROSECUTORS WILL RE-CREATE 3RD WIFE'S GRISLY BATHROOM SCENE

Police now believe Peterson beat Kathleen (inset, circle) unconscious, then drowned her in the tub

“There was a faint ring of blood in the tub...the tub was dry, and the drain shut”

Body in tub had TOO MANY BRUISES to be an accidental fall

THE horrifying image of Kathleen Savio lying dead in her bathtub will be graphically re-created at the murder trial of her notorious ex-husband Drew Peterson.

Prosecutors plan to bring the actual bathtub into the courtroom, The ENQUIRER has learned.

The ENQUIRER has obtained a photo of the bathroom as it looked at the time of Kathleen's tragic death.

It shows the oval-shaped tub in which her body was found – and above it is an angel figurine.

“My aunt loved angel figures, and my mother had given her one that she hung above the tub,” Kathleen's nephew Charles Doman told The ENQUIRER. “It's so sad to think she was killed underneath that angel.”

The body of Kathleen, Drew's third wife, was found in the tub of her Bolingbrook, Ill., home on March 1, 2004. Her death was declared an accident. But after Drew's fourth wife Stacy vanished Oct. 28, 2007, authorities took another look at Kathleen's untimely death and reclassified it as a homicide.

As part of their investigation, Illinois State Police removed the bathtub from Kathleen's former home with the cooperation of the family that now lives there.

Police believe 55-year-old Drew sneaked into his ex-wife's home nearly 24 hours before her body was found, awakened her in her bed, and beat her unconscious.

SUSPECTED wife killer Drew Peterson propositioned his best friend's spouse – unaware she was wearing a wire and that police were listening to his sleazy come-on.

And in a stunning development, ex-cop Peterson asked the woman to model bikinis belonging to his missing fourth wife Stacy – and boasted that even if cops find her remains, he has nothing to worry about.

That's just part of the dramatic evidence to be presented when Peterson's trial for the murder of his third wife Kathleen Savio begins in August, The ENQUIRER has learned.

Paula Stark, 38, and her husband Len Wawczak, 42 – close friends of

Len Wawczak secretly taped ex-pal Peterson

Peterson for 16 years – agreed to be wired after they became suspicious following the disappearance of his fourth wife Stacy, 23.

Over a harrowing seven-month period while being monitored by Illinois State Police, the couple say they trapped Peterson into talking about the death of Savio – and explaining why he'd be out

Then he filled the tub with water and held her head under until she died, cops theorize.

“There was a faint ring of blood in the tub,” said a source connected to the Peterson murder investigation. “The tub was dry, and the drain shut when Kathleen's body was found. It's believed the water drained out, even through the closed drain.”

In a re-examination of death-scene photos, new investigators were aghast at how a determination of accidental death was made by a coroner's jury.

“There were 17 bruises on Kathleen's body,” said the source, “and she was in a position lying scrunched in the tub where it was clear she hadn't fallen and hit her head.” by DON GENTILE of danger of arrest by the time Stacy's remains were found.

In one heart-stopping moment, Paula was alarmed when Peterson suddenly hugged her and asked her to model Stacy's fur coats and bikinis. She knew that if she agreed, the bugging device she was wearing would be exposed.

“I THOUGHT A FEW TIMES HE MIGHT have felt it,” she revealed in an interview.

Peterson tried to kiss her, she said, “rubbing up against me, whispering in my ear, ‘I love you.’” She captured the aging Romeo on tape asking her to

Stacy and Drew Peterson

Wire let cops listen as he asked woman to model Stacy's bikinis and tried to kiss her run off with him. When she insisted that her husband wouldn't let her go without a fight, Peterson replied chillingly: “Don't make me shoot him.”

Len Wawczak was secretly taping his friend at the time cops reopened the investigation into Savio's drowning death and exhumed her body. Peterson, he said, told him coldly: “I should have had that bitch cremated. It would have cost me less, and I wouldn't be going through this trouble.”

And when they discussed the hunt for Stacy, “he said he wasn't worried about them finding Stacy's remains down the road because he figured by that time, he would have been tried and acquitted – and you can't be tried for the same case twice.”

Asked about the undercover work of the star witnesses, Illinois State Police commander Ken Kaupus said: “In a case of this magnitude, we're going to use every available resource.”

Tell us your gripes - or praise - about people and events in the news. We'll pay $50 for the Letter of the Week and $25 for every other letter we publish.

Kate grates

Kate Gosselin is a train wreck. I don't know what Jon saw in her. That haircut doesn't do anything for her. It might look good on my Yorkie pup, though. In a bikini, Kate looks like a tree stump (Best & Worst Hollywood Beach Bodies, June 22). She should have been on the "Worst Bodies" page.

- Rose S., Macon, Mo.

Star Jones pity party

Regarding your article, "Star Jones Wants to Take on Judge Judy" (June 22): My heart bleeds for Star. What a shame she has to cut back on her lavish lifestyle until she gets a new TV show. She isn't being greedy? What, then, would you call it? Try living paycheck to paycheck like most of us, Star!

- Anne R., Saundertown, R.I.

$50 Letter of the Week

'Real Housewives,' real gauche

Watching the "Real Housewives" series has made me realize that you can have all the money in the world and still lack class and couch.

Thank you, "Housewives," for making us middle- to lower-income folk feel so much better about ourselves.

- Pat S., Brockton, Mass.

HOW TO PLAY

You must fill in every empty square in the Sudoku grid. There's no right way of going about this, but there is only ever one solution. The big grid is split into nine mini-grids. There are nine rows running left to right and nine columns running down. In every row, you must have each of the numbers 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9. These can be in any order. The same applies to columns and mini-grids: place every number 1 through 9 in each column and in each mini-grid.

NO BUM RAP for Rihanna's new boyfriend

Singer's pals give rising star Drake Graham TWO THUMBS UP

RIHANNA's new boyfriend comes preapproved by her inner circle!

Concerned for the beautiful R&B singer after her infamous split with Chris Brown in February, music heavy hitters and close pals Beyonce, Jay-Z and Kanye West have given their stamp of approval to Rihanna's new guy, up-and-coming 22-year-old rapper Aubrey "Drake" Graham.

"Rihanna's friends and mentors love Drake because he's low key, calm and the polar opposite of Chris," divulged a friend and business associate of the "Umbrella" singer. "He worships Rihanna and treats her like a princess."

"The fact that he's gotten the thumbs-up from Jay-Z, Beyonce and Kanye has given Drake an extra advantage over Rihanna's other suitors."

Drake was featured on Jay-Z's new album, and Jay-Z suggested to Rihanna, 21, that she write songs with him for her upcoming release - and the two hit it off immediately. Kanye - who directed Drake's video "Best I Ever Had" - also thinks the world of Drake.

Rihanna and Drake made their first public appearance together on May 18 at Lucky Strike Lanes and Lounge in New York City.

ON JUNE 22, CHRIS, 20, pleaded guilty to a felony assault charge in connection to his Feb. 8 altercation with Rihanna. He was sentenced to 180 days of community service, ordered to attend a domestic violence counseling program, given five years of supervised probation and ordered to stay 50 yards away from his former girlfriend.

"Rihanna's crew can't stand Chris, and they are doing everything possible to keep him from slinking back into Rihanna's life," continued the friend.

"Thankfully, Rihanna is relying on her good friends to help her with career and personal decisions."

HERO TRUCKER HITS ROAD TO RECOVERY

HE SAVED 2 KIDS FROM RAGING INFERNO, now good Samaritans save him from financial ruin

A TRUCKER risked his life to save two young girls from a burning wreck — and was paid back beyond his wildest dreams for his incredible act of bravery.

After his heroism, truck driver Jorge Orozco-Sanchez was rescued from the brink of financial disaster when other good Samaritans came to his rescue.

"I can't believe people can be so kind," Jorge told The ENQUIRER. "I was at my wit's end trying to support my family. I was going down the tube fast when out of the blue, others stepped in and gave me a helping hand."

"There really is good in this world." No one deserved the break more than the 31-year-old truck driver,

The remains of the devastating wreck. At right, hero Jorge is checked by a paramedic

The trucker with his new rig

his wife Susie, 30, and their two youngsters from Firestone, Colo. Their lives were almost destroyed last Oct. 28 when Jorge's 18-wheeler was hit head-on by an SUV that had drifted across the median into his path north of Greeley, Colo.

ALTHOUGH DAZED BY THE CRASH, Jorge sprang from his cab and ran to the SUV. With flames already surrounding the vehicle, he saw two young girls strapped into their car seats — crying as their mother lay motionless in the driver's seat. As the flesh-searing fire raged around him, courageous Jorge entered the burning SUV, not once, but twice, to pull out 4-year-old Peyton Nicklas and her 1-year-old sister Morgan. Both were seriously injured, but survived. Tragically, their 27-year-old mother Melissa, of Eaton, Colo., was killed instantly.

The SUV's fuel tanks had ruptured and exploded, creating an inferno, which reduced both vehicles to hunks of charred metal.

"I feel grateful that God put me there at the right time to save those little girls," said Jorge, whose beard was singed and arms were burned by the flames. "I tried to save their mother, but I couldn't." The wreck left Jorge almost destitute. With no truck, he had to struggle for an income — toiling in his brother's restaurant while his wife worked as a school clerk.

"Bills piled up, and creditors were hounding us as I waited for insurance payments for my truck," said the hero.

Then help came from an unexpected place — Goodyear. In March, the tire company picked Jorge as its 2008 Highway Hero — an honor which comes with a $10,000 U.S. Savings Bond, a plaque and a specially designed ring.

But that was just a start on his road to recovery.

When he went to Louisville, Ky., to collect his award, Goodyear executives and representatives of the Owner Operator Independent Drivers Association decided it was time to do the right thing for a guy who had himself done the right thing.

"We were very touched by his story," said Norita Taylor, spokeswoman for the association, which represents some 159,000 truckers.

THE ORGANIZATION ARRANGED A no-money-down loan and found a 2005 rig for Jorge. To replace the vehicle's worn tires, Goodyear sprang for 18 new ones worth $400 each — a total of $7,200.

Pilot truck stops threw in a $250 gas card, and Jorge was on his way.

The hardworking dad was overwhelmed by all the helping hands, but remains modest. "Oh man," he said, "I don't think I deserve it."
